The mission committee of the Meadow View congregation asked the elders to take on the support of Serafin Rodriguez in Mexico in the spring of 2017. Serafin is in his 50s, is married to Amada, and they have 3 grown sons. Serafin had attended a preacher training school in Monterrey when he was a younger man. (He worked full-time in the Lord's church after completing that preacher school with an American brother in W. Texas providing much of his support back then.) At some point Serafin lost that support and took on secular work, and in the intervening years he's continued to preach and teach and work with the congregation locally in Frontera, Coahuila, Mexico. More recently he has also begun to invest more time in a new church plant in a corner of Monclova, a larger city which is near Frontera.
